FIGHT OVER LYNN PROSECUTION NOW BEFORE KENNAMER

Ruling on Injunction Expected At Chickasha Late This Afternoon

INJUNCTION QUESTIONED

Attorneys of State Contend Federal Court Without Jurisdiction

CHICKASHA, Nov. 11—After a morning of argument in which state and federal attorneys failed to agree on the prosecution of Wiley Lynn, federal enforcement officer charged with killing William Tilghman at Cromwell a week ago tonight, Judge F. E. Kennamer in federal district court here at noon today indicated he would rule this afternoon whether the state authorities should be permitted to serve a murder warrant on Lynn.

The hearing was on the question of whether the temporary order restraining the sheriff of Seminole county from placing Lynn under arrest should be made permanent.

M. N. Gore and Edwin Dabney, representing the state attorney general office, told the court that prosecution of Lynn should be left to the state because the federal statutes provided a less direct method of bringing a murder charge. Frank Lee, United States district attorney from Muskogee said it would be dangerous to turn Lynn over to the state now and have him returned to Wewoka to stand trial because of threatened violence. He said that later he would have no objection to the state filing the charge.

Throughout the hearing Lynn, who is at liberty on a $10,000 bond after his arraignment before a United States commissioner last week, was in the court room listening to fight over whether federal or state government should prosecute him for murder.

Kennamer's Ruling Questioned

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 11—“We are at loss to understand under what theory of law Judge F. E. Kennamer issued an injunction interfering with the action of a state court in the case of Lyle Lynn who killed William Tilghman at Cromwell November 1.” Edwin Dabney, assistant attorney general, said Monday on the eve of his departure for Chickasha to argue Tuesday against Kennamer's making his injunction permanent.

Kennamer early Monday enjoined J. A. Doyle, sheriff of Seminole county from serving a state warrant on Lynn for the arrest of Lynn on a murder charge. Dabney and N. W. Gore, also an assistant attorney general, have been designated by Geo. Short, attorney general to represent the state court at the hearing.

Walton Case Is Precedent

The supreme court of the United States within the last year passed on the rights of a federal court to enjoin a state court and held that the federal court had no authority of this kind. This was passed on in the appeal of J. C. Walton.

Walton's attorneys asked the federal district court to restrain the state court of impeachment from trying him. Judge Cotterell held that the federal courts could not restrain a state court and the supreme court upheld him when Walton carried the case there on appeal, Dabney said.

TOTAL OF STUDENTS IN SUNDAY SCHOOLS DROP

Total number of public school students in Sunday school last Sunday took another drop down the line over the Sunday previous when a total of 1,079 students and teachers from the schools reported in classes.

The Washington school sent the largest total to Sunday school.

Following is the list of schools and their Sunday school attendance:

Irving School: Pupils in Sunday school, 175; teachers, 5.

Washington School: Pupils in Sunday school, 137; teachers, 10.

Hayes School: Pupils in Sunday school, 191; teachers, 9.

Willard School: Pupils in Sunday school, 176; teachers, 4.

Glenwood School: Pupils in Sunday school, 121; teachers, 4.

High School: Pupils in Sunday school, 174; teachers, 13.

Total number pupils in attendance, 1,034; total number of teachers, 45; total number of teachers and pupils, 1,079.

STATE FAILS TO MEET EXPENSES

Expenditures for October Exceeds Income, Shaw's Report Shows

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 11—Families vainly trying to make both ends meet on their income should find solace in the state treasury report for October completed Friday by A. S. Shaw, state treasurer.

The state, too, is having its troubles.

Oklahoma's expenditures exceed the state's income by $1,549,963.85, the report shows. Expenditures for October totaled $2,368,051.48 while income from ad valorem taxes, corporation licenses, tax receipts, fees from state officers and other sources was only $918,087.63.

This leaves a balance in the treasury from the 1924-25 general revenue of only $123,089.17.

Oklahoma's treasury will be kept out of "the red" however by about a million dollars which will be turned in during November from the gross production tax. Three per cent of all money from oil production is collected by the state. Two thirds of this amount goes into the State treasury while the other third goes to the county in which the oil is produced, Shaw said.

The tax is paid quarterly. Last quarter's payment brought the state $1,200,000.

The school aid fund for assisting county school districts in poorer sections of the state was the most severe drain on the treasury during October the report shows. These schools received $650,000 from the treasury during October. The ninth legislature passed the bill granting aid to the country schools.

Expenses included instructional maintenance official pay rolls and government costs.

Mrs. Bartles Dead

(By the Associated Press)

BARTLESVILLE, Nov. 11.—Mrs. Nannie Bartles, 81, mother of Joe Bartles, founder of the Dewey Roundup and wealthy oil man, and pioneer of Oklahoma, died at her home in Dewey last night at 9:40 following an illness of several weeks. Her husband, who preceded her in death several years ago, was the founder of Dewey and Bartlesville was named after him.

Health Authorities Probing Conditions In Illinois County

(By the Associated Press)

MARION, Ill., Nov. 11—Health authorities of Williamson county today were awaiting word from the state board of health regarding the finding of 14 cases believed to be traceable to the pneumonic plague and discovered at Hurst and Bush, mining towns.

According to Dr. A. W. Springs of DeWainne, the patients have shown "all symptoms" of the plague. Twelve cases are reported from Hurst, two were sisters and living in the same house the other two, Dr. Springs said, was found in Bush.

A representative of the health board spent several days in this county investigating the cases but said his report would not be made public until it reached the board.

BRITISH OBSERVE ARMISTICE DAY

King George and Subjects Turn Out to Ceremonies; Unknown Soldier Is Honored

(By the Associated Press)

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Tens of thousands of people of London gathered today around the cenotaph in sorrowful but proud remembrance of their 1,000,000 kin who died in the war that came to an end six years ago today.

Whitehall was thronged its entire length by subjects of the far flung British Empire most of whom wore red poppies bought with pennies and pounds to help the men who came crippled from the Flanders and other battle grounds.

At the core of the crowd was the king and his two elder sons, the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York who placed a wreath at the foot of the cenotaph just before Big Ben in his tower rising above the house of parliament tolled eleven, the hour which ended the greatest of wars. On the echo of the tolling of the great bell the crowd stood for two minutes in reverent quiet.

Throughout the British Isles the same two minutes were given over to silent remembrance of the dead.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL IS LAUNCHED

Believed Moderate Success Obtained in First Day Of Annual Drive

The annual Pontotoc county Red Cross roll call was launched in Ada this morning and the initial drive, which started at 9 o'clock was met with moderate response from business concerns and individuals of Ada.

More trouble was encountered in securing committeemen to canvass the city than securing pledges for contributions for the work for the coming year. Several committees were cut to one and two members, where they should have exceeded this by four.

Committees that reported to Judson Treadwell and Robert Bradley, who are in charge of the drive, indicated a fair response from Ada and the belief has been sounded that the roll call this year will equal if not surpass the total contributions of last year.

The preliminary report of committees could not establish the probable amount collected or pledged to the county fund. Committees of women, who were scheduled to canvass residence sections, had not reported and those in charge expect moderate success from this source.

Should Ada fail to contribute the amount needed to maintain the Ada Red Cross chapter for the coming year in the drive today, it will be extended to the period adopted nationally, from Armistice to Thanksgiving, and all efforts turned to full collection by the end of that period.

EIGHT INMATES OF ELKS HOME ARE POISONED.

(By the Associated Press)

LYNCHBURG, Va., Nov. 11.—Eight veteran members of the Elks organization, residents of the Elks national home at Bedford, Virginia, died late yesterday, at the home from what is thought to have been fresh cider poisoned by a compound used for tree spraying. The cider, it was said was brought from a farmer. The barrel had been used in connection with spraying in the spring, it was thought. Several other residents of the home are ill from the poison.

Judge Rules Clause In Volstead Act Does Apply to Home Brew

(By the Associated Press)

BALTIMORE, Nov. 11.—In the trial of Representative John Philip Hall, in the United States court here today for alleged violation of the Volstead act, Judge Morris Soper ruled that the "one half of one percent" clause in the Volstead law does not apply to beverages made in the home for home consumption.

The question was raised at yesterday's hearing when District Attorney Woodcock objected to a question put to the first defense witness who admitted he had been to Mr. Hill's cider party but was not permitted to tell whether he had seen any one intoxicated or not.

ADA HIGH BOOSTERS OFF FOR HENRYETTA

Special Train Carries Off Ada Fandom; Two Crack Teams to Meet

Undefeated in southern Oklahoma, Ada's high school crack football team enroute at noon today for Henryetta where it will meet one of the heaviest football teams in Oklahoma, one that has not been beaten by any team in the Eastern conference.

With the team, went 125 loyal fans and supporters, booster train was Ada's idea of support for the bunch of youngsters who have stemmed all opposition thus far this season.

Approximately 100 students from the high school accompanied the team and the remainder of the delegates enlisted lusty-lunged fans of varied ages. A number of high school teachers and mothers of high school students made the trip as chaperones.

The Ada high school band also accompanied the football delegation to Henryetta and will lend its share in boosting the team at trying periods in the gridiron classic today.

The special train accommodation is a new idea in high school athletics. The activities of several teachers and Ada business men made responsible the trip to Henryetta.

Find no Clue to Postoffice Robbery Here

No clue has been found to the theft of $225 in U. S. postage stamps from the local office over a week ago, and postoffice officials expect no further information on the matter for some time.

Despite the fact that no evidence to the robbery is at hand, postoffice officials are confident that eventually the plunderers will be brought to justice. It is the code of the government in handling such petty cases, where no loot of possible identification is taken.

An inspector came to Ada Monday morning after the robbery of Saturday night, gathered all available data and then departed to his headquarters without further loitering in Ada, confident that time will bring out the guilty and redeem the lost.

The stamps are of such variety that their identity was probably lost in the day's business. Had the robbery brought about the theft of money order blanks, the loot would have been traceable from the steady stream of absent blanks coming into the office.

The postmaster here and his assistant are not worried over the loss, maintaining that time alone can weave a web around the present mystery and bring the guilty parties to justice.

MURDER POSSIBILITY DUE TO GANG WAR

Rivalry of Gangs of Chicago Tought Thought to Be Cause of Trouble

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Nov. 11 — Gang rivalry, beer runners, gambling troubles and the contention of rival gangsters over a woman were theories followed by police today in their search for three men who yesterday shot and killed Dion O'Bannon, notorious gunman and gangster in his florist shop.

While they sought Mike Corrozo, alleged to be the leader, and Margaret Collins, pretty blonde, police took precautions to more killings in reprisal.

All known enemies of O'Bannon questioned in the court of inquiry after the shooting had been released today after they satisfied the investigators that they had no connection with it, but as the police inquiry progressed it was disclosed more than the three men sought by the police may have been involved in the actual slaying.

The theory that possibly 28 men using nine automobiles with which they blocked the traffic in the vicinity of the florist shop while the slayers escaped in an automobile was evolved after witnesses were questioned. The blocking automobiles, given scant attention at the time, paused long enough for the three men to make good their escape, it was said. Morgan A. Collins, police chief, declared the death of O'Bannon rid Chicago of "its arch-criminal."

"I don't doubt that O'Bannon was responsible for at least 25 murders in this city," Chief Collins said. "The city in general and police department in particular can give a deep sigh of relief."

Often under suspicion in connection with killings, O'Bannon was never tried for murder. Occasionally when he was named in connection with a killing he would appear voluntarily.

O'Bannon rose to prominence because of his marksmanship acquired by shooting at door knobs in north side saloons. He acquired much wealth and bought his parents a home, furnished a beautiful apartment for himself and bought a ranch in Colorado. Police said he spent freely, gave freely and lent freely and that he was generous and loyal to his friends.

ARMISTICE DAY IS GENERALLY OBSERVED

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 11.—Observance of the sixth anniversary of the conclusion of the World war was general throughout the state today. While in some communities business was transacted as usual, patriotic programs were carried out sometime in the day.

In Oklahoma City the capitol was closed for the day and employees were allowed to celebrate as they choose. The federal building and city hall also were closed.

An all day program starting with a service in a downtown theatre, was carried out. At 10:58 a. m. the city became quiet on the blowing of a whistle for a two-minute period. A feature of the evening's celebration was to be a street dance in the business section of the city conducted by the American Legion.

UNKNOWN SOLDIER AGAIN TAKEN TO HEART OF NATION

President and Military Heads Place Floral Wreaths on Tomb of Hero

ROLL CALL STARTS

Ada Has Full Program For Armistice Day Observance Here

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The capital's participation in the nation wide celebration of Armistice Day centered as heretofore about the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington national cemetery. In addition numerous patriotic excursions similar to those in other cities were arranged by various organizations of foreign groups and the day was also marked as the beginning of the annual roll call of the American Red Cross.

The Unknown Soldier's tomb was the shrine of many pilgrimages including the annual visit by the president in accordance with the custom established by President Harding. Only a few high in official life, including Secretary Milburn and Dwight Davis, acting secretary of war, appeared as representatives of the two military branches of the government as guests of Mr. Coolidge on his simple mission to the tomb.

Services in memory of Woodrow Wilson in the national cathedral where he is buried, were arranged and a committee led a pilgrimage to his home on F. street.

None of the government departments, closed for the day. President Coolidge having found that he lacked the authority to declare a holiday in the absence of action by congress.

Ada's flat-decked streets were early objects of Armistice Day observance, while a program in fitting commemoration to the sixth anniversary of the closing of the world war was in store for later hours of the day.

Business houses of Ada were scheduled to close doors at 1 o'clock this afternoon for the remainder of the day in order that employees might observe the holiday as they pleased.

The closing of the business houses of the city came as a result of the efforts of the Norman Howard post, American Legion sponsors of the Armistice Day services at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Convention Hall.

Senator Joseph Looney, a prominent legislator, was scheduled to deliver the Armistice Day address in conjunction with a fitting program for the occasion. Dr. Sam A. McKeel was to preside in the absence of Post Commander Robert S. Kerr, who delivers the Armistice Day address at Gracemont today.

As a concluding feature of the Armistice Day celebration here, the Norman Howard post will present their Follies Berge, a replica of war days in France depicting a French musical revue.

A number of Ada citizens went to Henryetta for the football game as a means of spending the Armistice.

A number of the county offices were closed today but banks, city offices and the postoffice remained open this morning.

SIMPLICITY SOUGHT IN FUNERAL OF SENATOR

BOSTON, Nov. 11.—Simplicity will be observed at the funeral of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, it was announced today. President Coolidge directed that the military officers in command of the military units here do all in their power to carry out the wishes of the family. It was declared improbable that military escorts would be accepted.

As representatives of the president, Secretary of State Hughes and Secretary of War Weeks and Captain Adolphus Andrews, naval aid to the president, will attend. There will be a delegation from the senate and house, Governor Cox and a delegation of the state legislature will represent Massachusetts.

A suggestion by the governor that the body be placed in the Hall of Flags in the state house to lie in state until the hour of the funeral services was not acted on by the family. Today friends who wished to pay the last tribute, went to the home of Dr. William Sturgis Bigelow, life long friend of Senator Lodge, to which the body was taken from the hospital where the senator died.

CHARTING THE World FROM THE Air

Globe Circling Army Airmen Make Contribution to Topography of Nations: Commercial Maps Best in America

A NOTABLE addition to the accuracy of the existing maps of the globe will be one of the outstanding contributions to world knowledge on the part of the United States Army aviators participating in the around-the-world flight.

For they will have checked the correctness of what is regarded as the largest single collection of maps that has ever been assembled for a given purpose by any government in the world.

More than 20,000 single maps were secured in preparation for the epochal aerial globe circling tour. And these represented not only the highest quality production of all the governmental agencies of the twenty-seven nations over which the American aviators flew in their 26,973 mile journey, but also, insofar as the United States is concerned, the complete output of state surveys and the output of map publishers.

Vast areas of the United States are without government topographic maps, and so far as their flight over this country was concerned, the primary information in the hands of the world flyers was in the shape of maps prepared by publishers for commercial use.

Divide Globe

When the around-the-world-flight was first projected, the Army Air Service began assembling the maps necessary to insure the safety of the aviators and their airplanes. When this task had been completed it was found that more than 20,000 separate maps had been obtained. The impossibility of carrying this large number of maps on board the four planes which started the flight on March 17th, at Santa Monica under the command of Major Frederick L. Martin, led to a decision to divide the globe into six divisions and then arrange the vast collection of maps and charts into that many groups.

The maps for the first division of the route were given the aviators as they hopped off. Lieutenant Erik H. Nelson, for example, received a commercial map of California for the first stages of his flight. A section of this map is shown above. At the end of that division an officer of the Air Service was in waiting prepared to distribute the maps covering the next division. The officers of the flight turned over to this division contact officer the maps that had been used up to that point and received the supply necessary to carry them to the next distributing point, where the same procedure was followed.

Salvage Maps

When Major Martin and his mechanic, Sergeant Harvey, were wrecked in the flagship Seattle on the Alaskan peninsula near Port Moller, they salvaged their maps among the few things that they did save at the time.

First Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, whose plane, the Chicago, became the flagship as he assumed command, with his mechanic, Lieutenant Leslie P. Arnold, carried the most important and accurate maps during the remainder of the flight. Lieutenant Erik H. Nelson, who piloted the New Orleans with Lieutenant John Harding, Jr., as his mechanic, made many important notations on the maps he used.

Saved Maps From Boston

And when Lieutenant Leigh Wade, together with his mechanic, Lieutenant Henry H. Ogden, were forced down in the Boston I about 115 miles outside of the Orkney Islands on their way to Iceland and the airplane was later lost, he salvaged among the very few things saved at that time his maps. When the Boston II was equipped for him to continue the flight he received a new supply of maps and charts.

For all flights where the ships were equipped with pontoons and were following the coasts hydrographic maps were used. The Coast and Geodetic Survey furnished the maps for the coasts of the United States and its possessions. Hydrographic Office charts and maps of all foreign coasts, supplemented by British Admiralty, Danish and German charts, were used also very extensively.

Maps for Land Hops

During the land hops in Asia and in Europe, the 1 to 1,000,000 series map of the world was largely used. These are scaled maps in which each unit of length represents one million of such units in nature. From Calcutta to Constantinople this was supplemented by provincial maps of the Indian Land Office.

From Constantinople to London, in addition to the 1 to 1,000,000 series map of the world, the flyers' information was supplemented by special route maps of the Franco-Rumanian Airline and local territorial maps of Strip of commercial map of California with the line of flight checked off by Lieutenant Erik H. Nelson, pilot of the New Orleans.

Hungary, Austria, Germany, France and England.

Use Commercial Maps

In the United States, according to Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, the Flight Commander, the flyers used commercial maps and Air Service Route maps fabricated as a result of the combined efforts of the United States Army Air Service, the corps of Engineers of the United States Army and the Bureau of the Geological Survey of the Department of the Interior. These were supplemented by the post route series maps prepared by the United States Post Office Department. A complete set of commercial maps, and such maps as were obtainable locally throughout the United States were of inestimable value in the flight from Santa Monica to Seattle last March, and from Maine to Seattle in September.

When the world flight was projected, Major General Patrick appointed a committee of officers to handle the various details. It fell to the lot of Captain St. Clair Streett to arrange for the maps, and when the shortage of the United States government maps was emphasized, after all official maps had been assembled, Captain Streett fell back on the commercial maps of the country, which were found to be the most complete and satisfactory available.

Accurate Maps

These maps, according to information from the Geological Survey, have all been compared with official maps and were found to contain information in the way of railroad lines, roadways and the location of towns and cities that are lacking on the topographic maps prepared by the government. Such information is vital to the flyers.

Southern California, as an instance, is one section of the United States where the government has not yet made, due to a lack of appropriations, a topographic map, and it was a commercial map that Lieutenant Nelson used when he started from San Diego for Seattle. A section of this map and the lieutenant's notations upon it are shown above. Great areas in Arizona, New Mexico and Texas as yet have no Federal topographic maps which show the contour of those vast spaces.

When the world flyers reached Washington they had traveled a distance of 22,874 miles and had been in twenty-seven different countries. When they concluded their tour in Seattle their total mileage was computed to be in excess of 26,973, or more than the circumference of the earth at the equator. At Washington they had been in the air more than 320 hours of flying time.

Valuable Notations

Whenever opportunity afforded they made notations on the maps they were using so that some time later official corrections may be made upon existing maps to correct the errors that have crept in where actual surveys have not been made as yet.

When the itinerary from Washington to the West was revised after the lay-over there had demonstrated that the planes might not be equal to the task of surmounting the Rocky Mountains at higher points to the north, the value of the commercial maps, according to the flyers, greatly increased. Government maps of this area lacked the detailed information which abounded in the commercial maps. As a result, the World Flyers finished their feat as they began it—guided by the charts of map publishers.

Health Notes

(From the Department of Public Health, State of Oklahoma, CARL PUCKETT, M. D., Commissioner)

SCARLET FEVER

A great many reports are being received at this office of Scarlet Fever and the disease seems to be scattered nearly all over the state. The appearance of scarlet fever in a home should be immediately followed by a rigid quarantine; take no chances and be on the safe side. It is a very dangerous disease often disabling the child for life, and occasionally one dies from it. It leaves behind many complications, one of the most serious of which is kidney trouble. The heart is often attacked and many times the disease extends through the tube from the nose to the ear, producing deafness and intense suffering. It may possibly, if neglected, invade the bones of the head, needing a surgical operation to relieve it.

As a rule, scarlet fever begins abruptly with fever and vomiting, three to seven days after the last exposure to the disease, usually, at the same time, there may be a sore throat which may be the first symptom. The child has a very rapid pulse, all out of proportion to the fever; the rash appears twelve to twenty-four hours after this sudden onset, usually on the neck and upper parts of the chest, giving the appearance of having been scalded.

The law requires that a patient with scarlet fever shall be isolated and the house placarded. This is a duty of the health officer.

When your child gets sick in the manner described call the doctor at once, and follow faithfully his instructions as to diet and general care of the patient. If the child looks puffy and pale sometime after recovery, have the urine examined.

Section 6812 of the Revised Statutes of Oklahoma, provides a penalty for failure to report all cases of communicable disease.

SCARLET FEVER IS DANGEROUS. BEWARE OF IT!

GRAND OPERA BY TELEPHONE

HEARD FOR A NICKEL IN MUNICH

MUNICH, Nov. 11.—"Put a nickel in the slot and hear tonight's opera performance in the State opera house", is the latest Munich slogan. The telephone administration has just opened four opera-hearing halls in Munich suburbs, where long rows of pay telephones wait for customers, eager to hear grand opera for 50 pfennings.

Marie Tiffany Comes to Ada Wednesday on Lyceum Course

One of the most interesting characters in the musical world is Marie Tiffany, who will sing for Ada music lovers at the college Wednesday evening.

Her career was nobly begun and nobly pursued. At the age of three, she made her first attempt to sing in public, delighting her audience with her efforts to produce artistic effects. Her first success were on the Pacific Coast where she had experience in singing with clubs and orchestras. A trip to Paris gave her additional advantages, especially in operatic work. Returning to America, she was engaged by Manager Gatti-Casazza for his Metropolitan Opera and has been a member of that company for eight consecutive seasons. She has created roles in several world premieres and in addition to her operatic activities, has toured extensively throughout the United States and Canada.

Miss Tiffany, while still a young woman, has many successes to her credit, some of which have been instrumental in gaining for her a high position in the world of musical art. Her popularity has reached to the remotest limits of this country and her services are always sought for events requiring singing of the best type and quality. She was chosen for the Baltimore Municipal concert last season also for the Toronto Music Festival when she sang the Brahms "Requiem" with the Mendelssohn Choir "with great dignity and regard for the spirit of the work." She has been the guest artist at many New York city patriotic functions and last June was soloist for the symphony concert at the convention of the National Federation of Music Clubs which met at Nashville, N. C., having been chosen by her native state (California) as its representative. Last Summer Miss Tiffany went to Europe to gather further knowledge and inspiration and that her efforts were not in vain has been disclosed throughout the present season, for her work has appreciably taken on additional lustre and beauty.

dearth of dwellings here and it is planned to build more by the hundreds if the scheme proves practical. The frame of the houses consisted of two sets of boarding which were set four to five inches apart, the intervening space between the boarding being filled with sawdust which had been treated with a chemical preparation which made it non-inflammable. A coating of plaster was applied to the outside of the boarding and a family from the Vienna slums moved into their new home 21 days after the work was begun.

WORLD WAR DEAD TO BE HEROES OF STADIUM

NORMAN, Nov. 11.—All Oklahomans who died in the World War are to be honored in the Stadium-Union Memorial of the University of Oklahoma, according to a plan made public here on Armistice Day.

Incorporated in one of the structures will be some suitable tablet or other visible form of recognition dedicated to all those men of the state who gave their lives in the conflict that was ended six years ago today. Members of the executive committee of the memorial project have approved the plan and it is expected to take definite form in the near future.

Although the Stadium-Union project was conceived primarily as a memorial to alumni of the University who died in the service, it is the general feeling of those interested that it is only fitting that the memorial should be statewide in its scope. University men and laborer were buddies in the ranks and it is felt that a memorial to the one is not complete without recognition of the other.

Alumni groups in several counties of the state are planning to raise enough money to have a section of the stadium designated as having been given by their county. It is also expected that individuals will wish to take advantage of the opportunity to have a section of the stadium as a special memorial. The cost of such a section will be approximately $25,000, it is said.

Irish Consider the Auto An Evidence of Wealth.

DUBLIN, Nov. 11.—The laws of Ireland provide that when a pauper seeks support by the state, he must apply in the district where he was born. This has led recently to paupers, who have lived for years in the Free State, applying for admission to Ulster workhouses.

The authorities of Enniskillen, in northern Ireland, recently were called upon to consider the case of a woman pauper who came to them from Sligo claiming to be a native of Enniskillen. She was refused admission, principally because she drove up to the workhouse in a motor car. This was taken as evidence of means, and the applicant was ordered to return to Sligo.

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND

Speaking of new faces in Film-land (which is something we frequently do), the countenance of a comparative newcomer, June Marlowe, is well worth speaking about and liking at as well. She is called by Warner Bros. Co., with whom she has a contract, "The most beautiful girl in pictures," and according to her photos they are not far wrong.

June Marlowe was born in St. Cloud, Minn., and has been in pictures about two years. Her first work for the film-lums was in 1922 with Lloyd Hamilton in comedies. She soon attracted attention and was given a contract with Warner Bros. to star in their "Classic of the Screen." She lent her beauty to "Find Your Man," which starred Rin Tin Tin, the canine star.

How far June's beautiful brown eyes and hair and pleasing personality will carry her remains to be seen. Beauty is a great asset in photoplays, in our estimation. It is a little hard to visualize the noble hero falling immediately and desperately in love with a girl who is homely, no matter how well she emotes. On the other hand, if to look lovely is all she can do her pictures are apt to pall. Let us hope that Miss June combines brains with beauty.

Her history so far, points to this "consummation devoutly to be wished."

Just two years ago Louise Fazenda donned beautiful gowns and stepped into her first drama at Warner Bros. studio in "The Beautiful and Damned." Since then she has kept busy combining comedy with the deeper emotions. In "The Lighthouse by the Sea" she has a role that has no comedy relief. Louise, called, "Queen of comedy," is proving her versatility by doing fine work in this sombre setting.

It is rumored that "L'Aiglon" is under consideration for photo production. George Hackathorne has been mentioned for the title role and has been photographed made up for the dual part of Napoleon and "the eaglet."

David Terrence nearly met his Waterloo in his role of banker in Frank Lloyd's "Judgment," the other day. He had to play in a scene with a dog and a baby. The dog was one of the playful kind and Terrence was supposed to put the baby to sleep. He wasn't used to babies and was afraid something might go wrong with its back, and the sportive canine did not add to his joy. All went well, however, but David is willing to rest on his laurels with both babies and dogs for some time to come.

"The Air Hawk," starring Al Wilson, famous stunt aviator, will be released soon through F. O. B. It is said to be one of the most sensational pictures ever made. Virginia Brown Faire is the feminine lead.

A number of promising young pugilists will be seen in Dick Talmadge's new picture, "Hail the Hero." In spite of the fact that

Dick nearly killed himself in his last picture by breaking his neck, this new one is fuller of thrills than ever. Eva Novak plays opposite him in "Hail the Hero."

"Southern Mothers Suggested This New Kind of Laxative"

Second of a Series of Three Interviews With W. L. Hand

"During the many years that I ran a drug store at Charlotte, it was an every-day occurrence for women to ask me for something in liquid form to be given the children in place of calomel and castor oil."

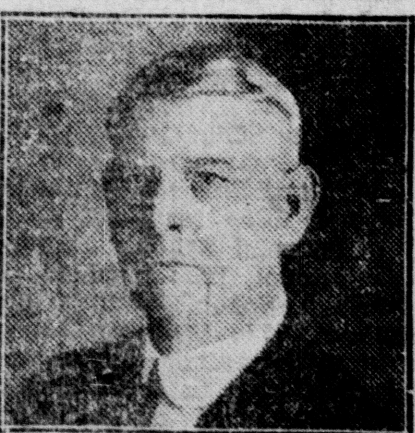

"I got to studying this problem, and found that if I could get a balance between certain vegetable ingredients, some of which act on the liver and some on the bowels, I would be able to fill this very universal and very definite need."

"I employed scientific methods and tested one combination after another until, finally, I hit upon a formula which proved up exactly right."

Mothers Pleased

Polish Bill Would Regulate Dress

(By the Associated Press)
 WARSAW, Nov. 11.—A bill is to be introduced in parliament, and which will have the support of clergymen of all denominations, to prohibit low-necked, short-sleeved dresses which outline the figure. The bill would also prohibit dress-making establishments from exhibiting fashion models which are considered immodest.

Pine Tar and Honey
Still Best for Chest
Colds and Coughs

Our mothers and grandmothers would never be without pine tar syrup in the house for coughs, chest colds, etc. This was many years ago, but modern medicine has never been able to improve on this time-tested remedy. Doctors say the pine tar is hard to beat for quickly loosening and removing the phlegm and congestion that are the actual cause of the cough. At the same time pine tar and honey soon soothe and heal all irritation and soreness.

The kind that has been used with never-failing success in thousands of families for years is that known as Dr. Felt's Pine-Tar Honey. This is scientifically compounded of just the right proportions of pine tar, honey and other quick-acting, healing ingredients which the best doctors have found to aid in quick relief. It contains absolutely no opiates, narcotics or harmful drugs, so can be given to young children—fine for spasmodic croup. It tastes good, too. If you want the best, a medicine that often stops the severest cough overnight, be sure you get Dr. Felt's Pine-Tar Honey. It costs only 50c at any good drugstore.

Texas Lady Says Her Family
Has Been Taking Theford's
Black-Draught, When Needed, for Many Years.

Alto, Texas.—"We inherited the use of Black-Draught in our family," says Mrs. Mary Shuprine, who lives near here on R. F. D. 2. "My grandmother was an old woman when she died about ten years ago, and she had been using it literally ever since I can remember. She gave it to her children and grandchildren for biliousness and stomach complaints, so when I went to housekeeping we just naturally used it, too."

"I give it to my children for a purgative whenever they need one, and we are never without it. Made into tea, it surely is fine. It's the best home remedy for headache and constipation I know of."

During over 30 years of its continued popularity, Black-Draught has become the standard liver medicine in many thousands of homes, where it has been found of great benefit in the treatment of constipation, biliousness, indigestion and other common liver, stomach and bowel complaints. Ten million packages of Black-Draught are now sold a year, as more and more people are learning of the value of this well-known remedy.

Blackburn to Stay in Ada

Word was received here today that Rev. R. T. Blackburn, pastor of the First Methodist church here, had been returned to the Ada church through the action of the East Oklahoma Methodist conference at McAlester.

Rev. Blackburn went to McAlester with civic organizations and his church asking for his return to his task here. The Lions and Kiwanis clubs had passed resolutions asking that he be returned.

HOW GREAT MEN
MAKE LOVEAS REVEALED BY THEIR LOVE LETTERS

By JOSEPH KAYE

(© by Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

WALT WHITMAN AND
ANNE GILCHRIST

ANNE GILCHRIST was a passionate admirer of Walt Whitman, the poet and the man; she was free; she was the woman he admired above any other—yet they were fated to remain apart, for Walt Whitman had given his heart to another and it remained in that other's possession even after she had married some one else.

Mrs. Gilchrist was an English writer whose husband had died when she was thirty-three and left her with four children. Eight years later she read the newly published book of Whitman's first poems, "Leaves of Grass." It was a revelation to her and made her a devoted Whitman disciple.

Whitman was badly in need of such friends. His book, which he had set up with his own hands—he was a printer among other things—because he could not find a publisher for it, was universally abused and ridiculed. His unconventional metrical style and his freedom in discussing social and moral subjects both astonished and shocked readers and critics and a friendly word for his work was a holiday for the poet.

During the Civil war, Whitman had served as a volunteer nurse, and when it was over, he found he had ruined his health. Thereafter, he was partly an invalid in his home at Camden, N. J. Mrs. Gilchrist, to be near the man she loved in his affliction, came to America with her children and lived in Philadelphia and then in New York. Personal acquaintance caused no disillusionment and their platonic love continued as before.

Mrs. Gilchrist had to leave America to educate her daughter in Europe and Whitman never saw her again. She died in England in 1885.

The following is the third letter in the series Mrs. Gilchrist wrote to Whitman:

"I wrote you a letter of the 6th of September and would fain know whether it has reached your hand. If it has not I will write its contents again quickly to you—if it has I will await your time with courage and with patience for an answer; but spare me the needless suffering of uncertainty on this point and let me have one line, one word of assurance that I am no longer hidden from you by a thick cloud—I from thee, thou from me; for I have never set eyes upon thee. All the Atlantic flowing between us, yet cleave closer than those that stand nearest around thee—love the day and night—last thoughts, first thoughts, my soul's passionate yearning toward thy divine soul, every hour, every deed and thought—my love for my children, my hopes, my aspirations for them, all taking new shape, new height, through this great love. My soul has staked all upon it. In dull, dark moods when I cannot, as it were, see thee, still, still always a dumb, blind yearning toward thee—still it comforts me to touch, to press to me the beloved books—a child holding some hand in the dark—it knows not whose—but knows it enough—knows it is a dear, strong, comforting hand. Do not say I am forward, or that I lack pride because I tell this love to thee who never have sought or made a sign of desiring to seek me. Oh, for all that, this love is my pride, my glory. . . ."

FRED TAYLOR ELECTED

NORMAN — Just because Fred Taylor, notorious saxophone artist, is the only S. A. E. pledge hailing from Ada, the state's three-letter town, wasn't any reason why the Pontotoc county had had to stay out of fraternity politics.

This was emphatically demonstrated at the annual Sigma Alpha Epsilon pledge election when Taylor was elected dean of the 1924 pledges by a majority resembling a landslide. Taylor won over three opponents in one of the most fiery elections known in S. A. E. pledge history.

MERRILL PREACHES
ON DENOMINATIONSChristian Evangelist Tells of Undenominational
Movement

At the First Christian church last night, Rev. W. A. Merrill preached a very interesting and instructive sermon using as his subject "The Undenominational Movement and its Appeal."

He said in part, that the early church was one and that the Apostles urged Christians to "keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace"; that during the Roman supremacy there was not much unity of the Spirit, perhaps, but that the union was preserved by centralized power. When a few of those who had access to God's word began to think for themselves, it was necessarily along narrow channels and that over-emphasis upon individual doctrines gave rise to sects and denominations. He said that the Restoration Movement in America was an attempt upon the part of earnest Christians to re-unite the children of God in the one body, with the one head and one spirit; and that, as such it was not and is not a sect or a denomination.

"A denomination," said the speaker, "is characterized by distinctive creed, distinctive names, distinctive doctrines or distinctive, or ecclesiastic, authority. And since we have none of these, we are not a denomination. We preach the Divine Creed, the universally accepted scriptural doctrines and names and subscribe only to the divine authority of Christ as revealed in his word."

Bro. Merrill's sermons are always courteous and considerate and give much of hope and cheer for every day life and the church most cordially invites and urges you to hear him. Services every night this week.

Tonight the subject of the sermon, as announced, will be "Religious Authority."

Oil News

The American Oil and Refining Company got a nice showing of oil in athin sand slightly below 1200 feet in their test on the Breco farm in section 3-4-6. The sand was very thin, and while it was rich in oil, it was not thick enough to carry very much.

This same company is getting ready to test out a sand between 1300 and 1400 feet on the McCurry farm in section 16-4-6. The hole is more than 1400 feet, but a sand was passed higher and it is believed a gas well may be made from that sand.

The rumor which persisted on the streets of Ada Monday that Slick had a gas well or an oil well north of the river was ill founded. Men who visited the field Monday say Slick is drilling at 3425 feet. While the operators are expecting pay sand at any time, the sand has not been found yet.

C. J. Skirvin, Jack Kitchell and Doc Sandbach are to resume drilling the William McDougal well in section 20-6-7, Seminole county, the last of the week. This well is 3300 feet and has been shut down for several weeks. It will be drilled to 3500 feet is that depth is necessary to test the formations.

Oil men are feeling more optimistic over the outlook than they have for some months, according to reports from Tulsa and other places where the big companies have offices. The passing of the election, the general rise of prosperity and the increased use of petroleum products stimulate the industry.

FRANCIS

Jeff Duncan of Dallas, was here with his family last week to visit his father, G. Duncan. Mr. Duncan was once a citizen of Francis and was around shaking hands with old friends.

Work is still going on out at the well in section 19-5-7 and it will not be very much longer until oil is found or the contract is filled.

The Pipe Line people are still busy installing their machinery. They are also erecting houses and tanks and leveling the ground and laying out the streets.

The farmers are almost through gathering their cotton and corn and about all the crops are on the market.

There are a few, but very few, houses to rent in town. The parties that own the vacant houses are expecting to set families in them in the near future.

The Methodist conference has sent Rev. John Thacker to take charge of the M. E. church. Mr. Thacker is here living in the Methodist parsonage.

The light rains Sunday night and the very pleasant weather Tuesday are making people feel like rushing business.

The cotton gin has gained up to this time, 419 bales of cotton and will gin a few more before the season is over.

C. D. Luper has received a new supply of wire and will soon begin to erect other lines in town. Mr. Luper says that he is going to make the telephone system more complete.

The election is over and the people, we hope, will get back to business. But some are feeling bad over the results of the election. The election went off very quiet and the people are still all good friends.

Everybody is laying in coal and otherwise preparing for the winter. They are repairing and renovating their homes, making them more sanitary for the long cold winter.

Some work has begun in the country for another crop but very little plowing is going on.

There is nothing on the police blotter for this week and everybody is very quiet and peaceable. Our citizenship was never more quiet and less violations of the law was never known in the history of the town.

ARMISTICE DAY

Today is the anniversary of that glorious day when hostilities ceased on the Western front and the great war was over. We pause in the midst of our daily toil on this day of rejoicing and yet of sad memories, to pay tribute where tribute is due. "And we pledge our renewed efforts to "carry on" in soldierly style the task they started. For out of cruel bloodshed and splendid self-sacrifice have arisen new confidence in the wisdom of our fathers and new hope for the future of our great country.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

BLESSED ARE THE PURE IN HEART; FOR THEY SHALL SEE GOD.—Matt. 5:8.

"Why should the spirit of mortal be proud?" queried the poet many years ago. The question is still unanswered and mortal man goes about his daily routine filled with the idea of his own importance and as if he expected to live forever. He reckons not that the world existed thousands of years before he encumbered a portion of its soil. He loses sight of the mighty movements of the race and sits back to contemplate with satisfaction his own greatness. The story of Gulliver in the land of the Lilliputians and his amusement at their quarrels and wars over trivial things and later his sojourn in the land where the inhabitants were 60 feet in height to whom his troubles appeared insignificant bring out this point very clearly. However, it is the nature of man to take himself seriously and he still goes his way with his spirit proud, and seeking the applause and favors of the spectators, fondly imagining that he is of some importance. He learns nothing from those who trod the same path before him. They have long since been forgotten but he imagines that future generations will still point to him as one at whose presence the world trembled or rose en masse to do him honor. What the mighty plan of the universe is we know not nor do we know what part we are playing in the great drama, but certainly there is little reason why the spirit of mortal should be proud.

There is little that can be added to what has been said and written about Armistice Day during the past six years. It was a time of great rejoicing when word was flashed from Europe that the struggle was over and the annual recurrence of the date has also been the occasion of universal satisfaction. Six years ago it was fondly believed that it marked the triumph of democracy and the rule of reason and justice in settling future disputes among nations. While subsequent events have caused the world at times to fear that the hope was not realized at that time, the fact remains that peace still reigns, the nations are hard at work repairing the havoc wrought by the war and with the League of Nations functioning on the side of peace there is still ample room to hope that the armistice of 1918 will be the last necessary for the human race to sign. The world does not desire war and only fear of one nation that another plans an attack will stir up another any time during the present generation.

While the state and federal authorities spend a year or two fighting over which shall try the slayer of Bill Tilghman the killer will have his freedom and the public will so far forget the case that he will stand a good chance of getting out no matter what the evidence may be. If convicted he will still have a year or two on which to play before the penalty is actually inflicted. The slowness with which the wheels of justice move is one of the greatest defects in our American system.

Many writers see in the result of the election, both state and national, signs of returning conservative thinking. Starting in 1920, radicalism began to grow, reaching its greatest strength about 1922. Apparently the reaction set in, soon afterwards, and the fiasco of the LaFollette movement is sufficient evidence that its career has about ended for the time being. It is likely that better crops and better prices had something to do with it, and then too people just naturally get tired of opposing all the time.

While we presume President Coolidge will not let our advice influence him greatly, we will say that he could go farther and do worse than coming to Oklahoma and getting John Fields for the vacant cabinet position. John has made a close study of agriculture, its practical phases and the proper relations of government to the farming industry. We should be pleased to see an Oklahoman in the cabinet, and we know of no member of the Republican party in the state better fitted for the place than John Fields.

During the last session of congress Massachusetts commanded the greatest influence of any state, the President, Senator Lodge, the senate leader, and Speaker Gillett of the house being from that state. Gillett was recently elected to the senate and leaves the speakership in other hands and the passing of Lodge will mean the selection of some leader outside his state. Thus will Massachusetts lose two of its strong grips on the affairs of the nation.

Tom McKeown goes back to congress with more prestige and more experience than before, and the world will hear from him. There are congressmen who get on the front pages more often than Ada's favorite son, but there are no members of the lower house who work harder and strive more earnestly to represent his people and get through the right kind of legislation.

Just now people are waiting for a cool spell so they can kill hogs. The days of spare ribs, ham and red gravy cannot be much farther away.

Life of Missionary in China During Late War is Recited

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 11.—(Special)—Methodist missionaries, who during the civil war in China, have been giving aid and comfort to wounded soldiers and refugees, will return immediately to their respective fields, according to a recent statement by Miss Mabel K. Howell, administrative secretary of Oriental missions, woman's work, M. E. Church, South.

"Missionaries and Christian leaders in China," says Miss Howell "see in their recent experiences a wonderful opportunity to interpret Christ and Christian ideals and motives." The only ones who have any complaint, she says are those who were caught in Shanghai and were therefore unable to minister to the people of their territory. They all testify that they have touched hundreds of lives that they otherwise could not have reached, and believe that the help they have been able to render will add to the general interest in Christianity in China.

Missionaries write that it is pitiful to see how the Chinese look to them for comfort and protection. Miss Howell says, "Even generals and other army officers have asked for the escort of American missionaries and the coolies have begged a missionary to ride with their trucks when they have to go beyond the foreign area, while in many instances the missionary has come to be the community leader and adviser. In none of the Southern Methodist area has there been any anti-American or anti-foreign feeling she says.

Schools Forced to Close.
According to Miss Howell, the war was entirely in the area of work of the Southern Methodist mission board. Almost every mission station was involved in some way. During the agitated period in and about Shanghai none of the Methodist schools were able to open, except McTear school at Shanghai; even the government schools in Shanghai were not able to open.

The school compounds were made centers for refugees and the capacity of the grounds and buildings was taxed to the limit in caring for the panic stricken, many of whom were aged, sick, and children. The missionaries became caretakers and comforters of the people who were frightened at the thought of remaining in their homes. Letters to Miss Howell arriving by recent steamers, say that many of the Chinese were terrified beyond description at the airplanes whirling above their homes.

In most of the mission stations she reports at least one hospital. The women missionaries registered as Red Cross helpers and nurses. In the Methodist hospital at Soochow, it was necessary to have a missionary at the head of each ward. In this hospital alone, 900 meals were served daily, and women missionaries looked after the preparation of food, made bandages, and did every conceivable duty.

So far as is known, said Miss Howell, in only one city where there was a mission station was there any looting. This was Huchow in the Chekiang province. The Southern Methodist compound in that city cared for more than 5,000 refugees during the period of looting.

As to the present situation, Miss Howell says, that railroads are still torn up between Huchow and Shanghai, so these two parts of their missionary work are without means of communication except by wireless. Now that general Lu, the Chekiang general has been defeated and the Kiangsu marshall has taken charge of Shanghai this area had become more settled and missionaries held in Shanghai by the American Consul have been allowed to go back to their work. They go by boat from Shanghai to Nanking, and thence to Soochow by rail. It takes two days to make this trip which formerly required two hours. The language school has been re-opened in Soochow, and one of the boys' schools. Gingling college in Nanking has opened and the new woman's medical school in Shanghai has opened its first term with six promising Chinese women students.

Missionary Force Increased.
Not only were the missionaries on the field faithful in striking, but new missionaries have gone to China since the outbreak of the war. Miss Howell reports. When it became known that China was in a state of war, the Board of Missions of the M. E. Church, South got in cable communication with the Chinese mission, and in every instance received word to send missionaries under appointment at once. Other new recruits will leave during the present month.

Miss Howell said that some of the friends and relatives of missionaries have asked why the board did not recall its missionaries, since their regular work could not go on. "The board knew it would be futile to recall its missionaries," said Miss Howell, "in the face of such a supreme opportunity to do the very kind of work for which they gave their lives. While it is true that the schools could not go on, hundreds of opportunities were open for tender, loving, compassionate service, such as a true missionary would covet. To have deserted the Chinese in such an hour would have had a serious result in their thinking. Missionaries have written that the look of hope that would light the faces of the Chinese when they met a missionary was more than reward enough, and their gratitude when assured by the missionaries that they would remain with them was touching in the extreme.

"The board was assured too, said Miss Howell, "that the generals of both sides in the conflict have promised protection to the missionaries. At no time were the missionaries in bodily fear," she said.

SCHOOLS PROPER PLACE FOR MOUTH HYGIENE

(By the Associated Press)
DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 11.—The public schools are the proper place to reach and teach mouth hygiene. Dr. W. O. Talbot of Fort Worth, Tex., said today at the convention of the American Dental association. "Public schools were established primarily for economic mental training," he said. "Later developments dared to support and supplement the moral training of the child in the home. In more recent years as centers of population grew, with more children to the acre and a school next door, there was insufficient exercise for physical development. Then came the demand for athletics to supply the deficiency in exercise and to assist in building stronger and healthier bodies.

"Until recent years only a few places have made any special effort to teach mouth hygiene in the public schools, which is the proper place to reach and teach the masses. The campaign for clean and healthy mouths is spreading rapidly. "The value of such teaching has been demonstrated beyond question. Special schools and some universities are now training dental hygienists to do health work in public schools and the demand for such workers is greater than the supply. The dental hygienist of today may be known as the health teacher in the schools of tomorrow."

Armistice Day

Six years ago the din of battle was hushed! Men taxed almost beyond human endurance, laid aside the armament of devastation—glad to return to their families and former occupations.

Today, on the occasion of this momentous anniversary, this nation pays homage to the 70,000 men who fell upon the field of honor. Those men did not die or suffer in vain, for since that memorable November day of 1918 great strides have been made toward universal peace.

Let us be happy in the thought, that while our sacrifice was severe, the marks of battle were not indelible. America has risen from the blows of Mars!

EIGHT HUNDRED GIRLS SWIM AT SOONER POOL

NORMAN, Nov. 11.—Nearly eight hundred girls take advantage of the swimming pool at the University of Oklahoma each week, according to an estimate made by Miss Ima James, head of the department of physical education.

Six hundred and fifty students, comprising the enrolment of all regular gym classes, swim once a week and approximately 125 others learn the aquatic art in the general period from 4 to 6 o'clock daily.

Before any girl is allowed to swim, she must be examined by Dr. Winnie Sanger, university physician and present a certificate stating that her heart is strong enough to stand the exercise. A life guard is stationed at the pool during the entire time in order to prevent accidents and to give help to the beginners.

The pool is open to all women students. Instruction is given and all swimmers are encouraged to become proficient in the sport. National Red Cross life-saving classes are conducted from time to time and licenses given to those able to pass the difficult tests.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TRICKS

Butler, Sloop Slated to Enter Cabinet; Hoover and New to Exit

By JOHN T. LEWING, JR., Central Press Correspondent. WASHINGTON.—With supremacy of the upper and lower houses of congress no longer in doubt, the chief topic in political circles in the capital relates to the changes President Coolidge will make in his cabinet. It is settled that there will be at least three, and possibly four new faces seen in the cabinet room within a short time.

William M. Butler, the president's campaign manager, is to get a seat, and so, also, will C. Bascom Sloop, the president's secretary. It is learned on reliable authority. The post of secretary of agriculture, made vacant by the death of Henry C. Wallace, is also to be filled, but neither of the above named gentlemen will be given it.

It is likely that the cabinet post Mr. Butler will get is the secretaryship of commerce. Mr. Hoover, it is believed, has had enough of his job, which never did attain the proportions it was expected to reach when he accepted it. When Harding went in as president it was suggested that the railroads and the shipping board would both be added to the department of commerce, which would have lifted it into importance second only to the department of state.

Lewis Mentioned. Presidential Secretary Sloop is slated to become postmaster-general. This can be taken to mean that Mr. Coolidge means to try it again in 1928 for it is history that the postmaster general does the preliminary campaigning through his vast patronage. Harry New will, it is assumed, be quite willing to retire, but perhaps not so soon, as he has in mind taking the Indiana senatorship away from Jim Watson, to whose machinations he attributes the casting of the Republican senatorial nomination to Beveridge two years ago, and it was the persistence of the New-Watson feud that brought the Democrat, Nelson, to the Senate.

There has been considerable talk in labor circles of the appointment of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, to the position of secretary of labor, now held by James J. Davis. Another mentioned for this position is T. V. O'Connor, at present chairman of the shipping board and for years president of the longshoremen's union. Lewis aided materially in the Coolidge campaign. He is looked upon as a "radical," however, and his appointment would not meet the favor of all labor factions.

It is certain that no changes will be made in the treasury, war or attorney-general departments. The president is well pleased with Messrs. Mellon, Weeks and Stone. Mr. Mellon is looked upon as the strength of the cabinet.

Teddy To Comeback? There is a report that former Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt will be brought back into the administration as secretary of the navy, taking the place of Curtis D. Wilburn. Mr. Wilburn's unfortunate (for him) speechmaking tours, which caused his recall to Washington, is expected to cause him to be absent for cabinet meeting next year.

Then too, there is a feeling that the present serious condition of the American navy calls for a more forward man than the present secretary, Young Roosevelt is considered the better man for the post.

WARTIME LEADERS PEACE ADVOCATES

Armistice Day Message From Two World War Generals Favor Peace

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Two of America's fighting generals have sent Armistice Day messages to the Commission on International Justice and Goodwill of the Federal Council of Churches in behalf of world peace and justice.

The two generals are former Major General James G. Harbord, now head of the Radio Corporation of America, and Major General John F. O'Ryan, who commanded New York's famous Twenty-Seventh Division in the world war.

The messages are part of the "mobilization for international justice and world peace" called by the Commission for Armistice Day.

"On November 11 of this year, Armistice Day will be celebrated by people throughout the world as marking the close of the sixth year of world peace following a period of armed conflict without parallel in the history of the human race," says the message of Major General Harbord. "The anniversary of his memorable day should be the occasion for indelibly establishing in the minds of all Americans the wastefulness, the horrors and the immeasurable destruction of wars."

"Let this day be observed for the study and discussion of ways and means of abolishing all possible future wars by substituting a practicable plan of action based on common-sense reasoning, justice and law. Let these anniversary gatherings and the speakers who address them be inspired with the true spirit of Christianity without which neither man nor nation can long endure."

Urging international cooperation Major General O'Ryan said:

"I commend heartily the proposal of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America to use Armistice Day to express to the people of the country the importance of stimulating understanding of the problem of securing world peace, so that the tragedies of war may be avoided."

There are a few simple and fundamental principles affecting the problem which cannot be too often repeated to the public. These are: that the maintenance of world peace is a world problem, and therefore must be dealt with by a world organization—call that organization by whatever name you please.

"Another is that from the beginning the world has always been organized for war, and the world has intermittently had war from the beginning. Now, for the first time in history the world is organizing for peace, and when the organization is complete the world will secure peace."

"So long as any civilized nation remains outside the obligations of membership in a world organization, organized for peace, the world is not fully organized for peace, and such a nation is a menace to world peace. Obviously the measure of that menace is to be computed in terms not of the good intentions of such a nation but rather in terms of its man power and military resources."

meeting next year.

Then too, there is a feeling that the present serious condition of the American navy calls for a more forward man than the present secretary, Young Roosevelt is considered the better man for the post.

sources. The mere statement of this principle serves to fix attention upon the enormity of America's responsibility for this present attitude.

"The Federal Council of Churches is conducting its campaign in the interest of peace in accordance with correct strategic principles, for its real mission is to develop the understanding of the American people, capture their interest, insure their understanding and win their support. The mission is not to attack the strongholds of political opposition. The strongholds where they exist, only serve to distract attention from the real objective. When the true mission is accomplished, the political strongholds will capitulate as a matter of course."

"The cause of America's fulfillment of her obligation to the world in relation to world peace is a sacred cause, and it is bound to win."

BROOKHART'S MAJORITY. OFFICIAL COUNT CUTS

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 11.—Senator Smith W. Brookhart's unofficial majority over his democratic opponent for the United States senate in Tuesday's election had dwindled from 1,025 to 674 when more than one-half of the election boards of Iowa's ninety-nine counties completed their official canvasses of the vote late Monday. Returns from these official surveys are not expected to be complete in all counties until late this week, numerous boards having adjourned this evening until after Armistice day.

Farm Column

HERE AND THERE

Monday I made a round of the Walnut Grove community beginning at the home of R. L. Moss. I found Mr. Moss cutting a supply of wood for winter, his crops being gathered and the deck cleared for the year. Mr. Moss is from Tennessee but for the past 15 years has lived on the present place. A feature of his farming that struck me was his fight to hold his soil. He has some good black land on the sloping sides of a hill and he is determined to hold it. He has kept up a series of terraces that have done good work and by running his rows in line with the terraces has helped still more. He said there were some deep gullies in the field when he first began operations but there is no trace of any now. Agent Hill has been talking land preservation ever since he came to the county and Mr. Moss' experience proves what can be done in this line.

Cutting across fields I next ran across Ike Mahan cutting sprouts along his fence row so that he can handle his crop better next year. Mr. Mahan is a young man but impressed me as being one who will finally win out.
Next I stopped at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Roddy. I always have a warm feeling for old timers who have gone through all kinds of hardships in building up this county and the Roddys are of this pioneer class. I have another reason for remembering them for they were among the first I met when I came here 18 years ago. The first place I visited outside of Ada was Egypt where in company with Capt. S. H. Hargis I attended a box supper on the last night of 1906. Somehow I have always felt a little closer to the friends I made in those early days of struggle than later comers. Mr. Roddy is not as young as some of his neighbors, but he is still active and made six bales of cotton this year.

Going east for half a mile after leaving the Roddy home I met J. T. Asee at the intersection of the roads and had a short chat with him. He lives some distance farther east but I did not have time to go to his house on this trip and make the round I had in mind around two sections.

Frank Pinley was fixing up his chimney for cold weather so I stopped there only a few minutes. Just about noon I reached the home of W. C. Rose near Walnut Grove school house. Mr. Rose had just got his Evening News from the mail box and I must have looked something like the paper for he guessed who I was the first time. I did not think I was hungry when I went in because I had been eating persimmons all morning, but I was the last one of the bunch to get through eating. Mrs. Rose had a bountiful spread of everything one could think of and the beauty about it was that everything on the table was raised at home. Mr. Rose said their plan is to get their living off the farm and keep the cotton crop money clear. Their cellar was filled with a general assortment of canned fruits and vegetables, potatoes and other eatables. Mr. Rose has 60 head of hogs and plenty of feed for them to say nothing of his teams, cows, chickens and turkeys of which they have a large number. In fact, he said he has 1,000 bushels of corn in his barn.

School opened that morning under Prof. F. E. Vincent. This is a one-room school house, but looked to be one of the most comfortable in the county. It is built of concrete blocks and has a concrete floor. As about 60 pupils attend this school the teacher has his hands full.

Next I dropped in at the home of C. P. Hopkins. I found him hauling wood for winter. He is another old timer, having lived in this country for 11 years. Some I found on this trip are having to haul water, but Mr. Hopkins is not one of them. He happens to be right on a good vein of water and his 40-foot well keeps everything on the place supplied.

I found P. H. Danley picking cotton. He had picked the bulk of his crop but still had some scattering bolls to pick and he was after them. Mr. Danley has lived in this section for the past 14 years, coming here from Eastland county, Texas, near where I once roamed in my younger days. Mr. Danley lives on just about the jumping off place of Pontotoc county, in other words, the Canadian river. From his cotton field I could look up the bed of this treacherous stream for a mile or more. At this point it was cut away just about all the bottom land from one hill to the other and is a good example of a half-mile ribbon of waste sand. There may be poetry in some streams, but somewhere one does not feel in a poetic mood while gazing on this stretch.

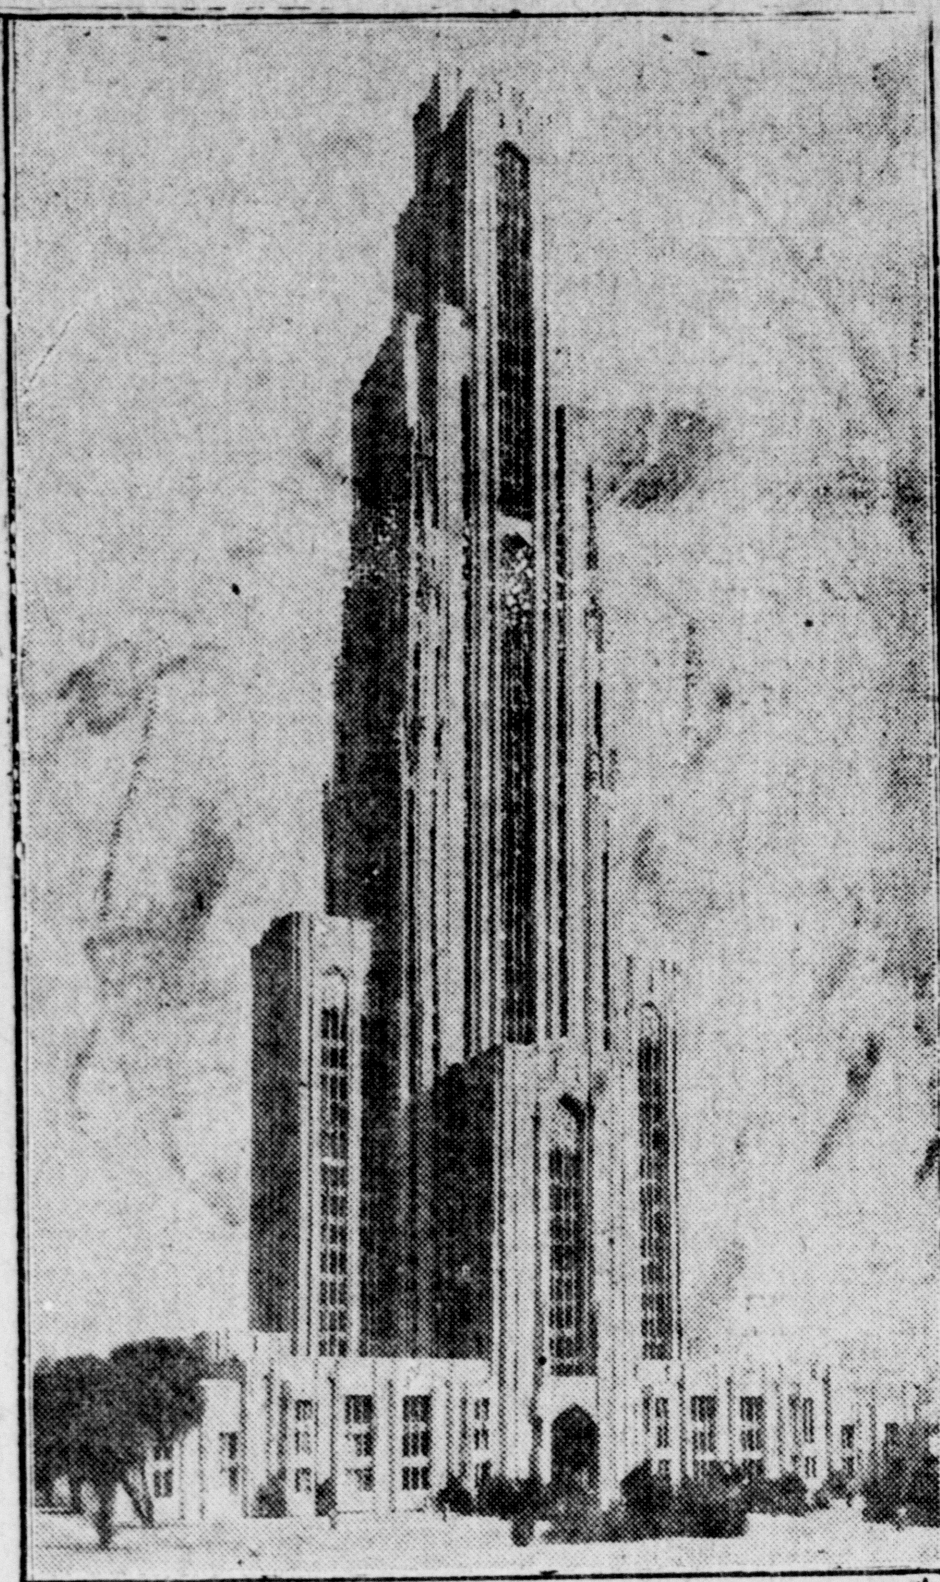

J. R. Binion was also picking the last of his cotton. Mr. Binion is one of the progressive men of his community and has for many years been a member of the school board of the district. He is a strong believer in education and has given considerable time to this phase of community life. Mr. Binion is another of the pioneers of the district.

When I reached G. C. Newby's home the first thing that caught my eye was a flock of some 200 White Wyandotte chickens. They were as pretty specimens as one is likely to find in the county. He said they started with 30 hens in the spring and without an incubator had raised the rest of the flock. He is a strong believer in this breed for he says they beat any for eggs that he has ever tried.

With the exception of a little scattering stuff here and there, the cotton crop of this community is out. The corn and sorghum crops are also in and with a rain to soak the soil a few inches the farmers will get busy breaking their land for next year's crops.

One thing that strikes one with force in this neighborhood. Most of

Cathedral of Learning is Plan of Pittsburgh University

"PITTSBURGH CATHEDRAL OF LEARNING"

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 11.—The greatest building devoted to education the world has ever known will soon be rearing itself loftily into Pittsburgh's smoky skies.

The University of Pittsburgh has completed plans and will begin the erection next year of a fifty-two story "Cathedral of Learning" to house virtually all of the university activities.

The structure will be 680 feet high, a height exceeded only by the Woolworth building and Metropolitan Life tower in New York city.

The new building will accommodate 12,000 students.

The designs will be 360 feet long.

The designs call for construction on the Gothic style.

The building will be 360 feet long and 260 feet wide. It will have four entrances and will provide class rooms, libraries, shops and laboratories for all of the schools of the university except those of medicine and dentistry. The main doorways will be thirty-nine feet high. Kentucky white limestone will be used. Comparing well in height with the Woolworth building, which rises 792 feet, and the Metropolitan tower which has 700 feet, the proposed educational skyscraper will have one story more than the Woolworth and two more than the Metropolitan tower.

It is to be located on the four-teen-acre university quadrangle facing the entrance to Schenley park. The plans call for an outlay of about $10,000,000.

Charles Z. Klauder of Philadelphia is the architect.

citizens own their homes and they have built good ones. The well built, well painted residences one sees here and in other parts of the county are in striking contrast with the log cabins which were the rule when I first came here. Even the most hardened pessimist will have to admit that Pontotoc county has made some progress.

Mrs. Norrell has a lot of hardy giant-phlox which she will give to the first ones who come for it and dig it up. This flower is not only very pretty but it is very hardy and holds its own the year around.

I can use two or three bushels of unthrashed kafir feterita, or beari heads in payment for subscription. This stuff is what I need for our chickens.

Marriage Totals in County Show Gain; Divorces Set Pace

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The Department of Commerce announces that, according to returns received, there were in the United States, for the calendar year 1923, 1,223,825 marriages performed and 165,139 divorces granted. For the calendar year, 1922, 1,129,045 marriages and 148,815 divorces were reported.

The increase in marriages reported for 1923, with one county lacking, over the number reported for 1922 is 94,780, or 8.4 per cent. Nebraska is the only state in which there was a marked decrease in 1923 and this is due, to some extent, to an amendment to the marriage law in 1923 requiring the posting of the application for marriage licenses for a period of ten days before the license is issued.

The divorces reported for 1923, with three counties lacking, show an increase of 16,324, or 11 percent, over the number reported for 1922. The large increase shown for the state of Washington is due to a change in the divorce law in 1921 which caused a considerable decrease in the number of final decrees entered in 1922, the first year in which the new law was in effect.

PRESS ADVOCATED AS CHURCH NEED

Advertising As Well As News Columns of Papers Now Endorsed.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Printers' ink will play a big part in the concerted plan to call people to the church now gathering momentum under the leadership of the Commission on Evangelism of the Federal Council of Churches. Great dependence will be placed upon the newspapers of the country, according to those in charge.

As part of the great evangelistic effort, which began October 5, leaders are suggesting to local churches and church groups through out the country that they make use of the advertising columns as well as the news sections of the daily press. Not only have the churches been advised to do this, but the business offices of the newspapers have been called upon to cooperate in making advertising effective. All the advertising will be done through the local churches or church organizations and groups in communities.

"The church, the school, and the press are the vital forces in American life at this time," declares a statement issued by Dr. Charles L. Goodell, secretary of the Commission on Evangelism of the Federal Council. There is a growing recognition of the value of the press to the church and the church to the press. The church has long realized the value of the press in telling of its activities. It is only within the last few years, however, that the church as a whole has made a definite effort to meet the needs of the press in this respect.

"On the other hand, the press only recently realized the intense interest taken by most people in the vital work of the church. From a business point of view, they have found that a constituency of church people makes their advertising columns more valuable for the church-going people are the best and most reliable element in the community.

"The church realizes the increasing need of delivering its message to the entire community. The news of its activities as told by the daily press is always inspiring and aids the church greatly, probably more than any persons realize.

"The news columns can not as a rule carry the straight gospel message. Its place is in the advertising columns. Through them the church can reach people who never enter the church door. They are the people, many of them friendly to the church, but indifferent, that we want to reach in this campaign. The church has never realized the wonderful opportunity of the advertising columns. Too often it has been satisfied with using them for mere announcements of services, and though this has its place and is worth while, the church must realize its greater task of using advertising for the story of salvation."

Finds Kellogg's Bran "Easy way to avoid constipation" after suffering for years

Constipation is a dangerous disease. It can lead to many others. Twenty years' suffering with constipation undetermined this man's health. Kellogg's Bran restored it—as it has done for thousands. This is what he says:

"Gentlemen:

"After eating Kellogg's Bran twice a day for one month I find it not only an 'Easy Way to Avoid Constipation,' but an easy and most pleasant way to cure it. I have been troubled with constipation . . . for more than twenty years . . . after adopting the milk and bran diet I find my stomach greatly improved, and find it a specific for constipation. . . . I deem it only justice that you should know what your product has done for me, and what it is capable of doing for others."

(The original of this letter is on file at the Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Mich.)

Kellogg's Bran relieves mild and chronic constipation because it is ALL bran. It brings sure results. It sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine in nature's own way. Don't experiment. Only ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is guaranteed to bring permanent relief—or your grocer returns your money. You should eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal.

The flavor is delicious—nut-like—cooked and krumbled. Enjoy it with milk or cream, sprinkled on other cereals, cooked with hot cereals, or in the delightful recipes on every package. Made in Battle Creek. Sold by grocers everywhere.

87 YEARS OLD BUT FEELS YEARS YOUNGER

Since Taking Tanlac Says Oklahoma Man.

"The makers of Tanlac will always have my warmest thanks for the benefits I have received from their wonderful medicine, Tanlac," is the grateful statement of D. C. Woodward, 106 S. Boulder St., Tulsa, Okla.

"In my case Tanlac has done what seemed impossible. When I began taking it my stomach was in such a bad fix that I had to live on a milk and egg diet and was almost a skeleton. I was in bed most of the time for two years and thought my case beyond the reach of any human agency.

"My daughter got me to try Tanlac, some six years ago, and at that time I only weighed 115 lbs. I have used it off and on since then and I now weigh 145 lbs. For a man my age, 87, I am enjoying fine health and am giving Tanlac credit for it."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Home and School Department

Mrs. Byron Norrell, Editor.

Parent-Teachers Association

The educational interests of every community would be enhanced thru the organization and sane management of a Parent-Teachers association. If parents and teachers are honestly striving for the best interests of the community, nothing but good can come from a closer co-operation and affiliation with each other. Dissatisfaction and lack of harmonious endeavor usually arise from a lack of understanding. A Parent-Teacher association under wise leadership, meeting monthly, wherein teachers and parents discuss problems and policies of the home and school can mean nothing in the end but closer co-operation of parents and teachers, and a more satisfactory realization of educational ends. The public is gradually becoming awakened to the importance of associations of this kind. One of the most striking evidences of this fact was a recent editorial in the Daily Oklahoman. The idea expressed in this editorial are considered of such general worth to teachers that it is considered well worth repeating verbatim:

"Just a few years ago the Parent Teacher association was an unknown movement; today it is active in a majority of the American states, and is recognized as one of the most important adjuncts of the national educational movement. It is filling a place in the educational sphere that no other organization can fill and is serving a purpose that is vital to the well-being of the American school."

"For too long did a wide chasm separate the American parent from the American teacher. During the earlier days of the country when 'teacher' boarded around with the different families of the district the parent and teacher understood each other and the problems of each other. But time broke this intimate contact and too frequently made the teacher a stranger in the community served. The parent soon lost touch with the teacher and the teacher lost touch with the parent. Each was ignorant of the burdens borne by the other and the views entertained by the other. Neither understood what the other was trying to do. In this way misunderstanding and distrust came into being, and in this way the work of the school was seriously hampered."

"The story of Samuel Johnson, who hated the stranger because he didn't know him, is familiar. Let us know one teacher and we will love one another, urged a distinguished southerner at the close of the war between the states. Believing that the re-establishment of a close contact between parents and teachers would also establish mutual confidence and mutual esteem, certain broad-visioned and forward looking people organized the Parent-Teachers association, which has spread very largely over the country and which is doing much to develop that no pay-in system and improve the education system of the country. It occupies a place that no other movement can occupy, and is doing a work no other agency can perform."—East Central Journal.

TIMELY RECIPES

Now is the time to use the green tomatoes. Frost will be coming soon and many will not ripen in time to be made into catsup, canned, or tomato sauce, so, I'm passing these recipes on. I've tried them and know they are fine.

"Mock Mince Meat."

Two quarts of green tomatoes, 1 pound of seedless raisens, 3 large ripe apples, 1 cup vinegar, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon of spices, cloves, allspice, cinnamon, 1 piece of fresh suet size of walnut.

Put tomatoes, raisins and apples through food chopper, cook until thoroughly done, will be thick with-out much juice, seal hot, makes delicious pies.

Green Tomato Pickle

Prepare four quarts of green tomatoes, four small onions and four green peppers. Chop fine, put in enameled pan, sprinkle well with salt, and let stand overnight. In the morning drain off the brine from the vegetables. In a separate vessel put the following:

One quart of vinegar, one level tablespoon of black pepper, one level tablespoon of mustard seed, one level tablespoon of celery seed, one level tablespoon of cloves, one level tablespoon of allspice, one level tablespoon of cinnamon, three-fourth cup of salt.

Bring to a boil and add vegetables. Cook 20 minutes after the pickle begins to boil. Fill jars and seal while hot.

Piccalilli

Chop up one peck of green tomatoes and three large onions.

Add one cup of salt, mix well, and let stand overnight. In the morning drain thoroughly and add two quarts of water and one quart of vinegar.

Boil for twenty minutes and drain through a sieve. Put vegetables back into the enameled kettle and add—

Two quarts of vinegar, one pound of sugar, one-half pound of white mustard seed, two level tablespoons of ground black pepper, two level tablespoons of ground cinnamon, one level tablespoon ground ginger, one level tablespoon whole allspice, one level tablespoon whole cloves, one-half teaspoon of ground cayenne pepper.

Boil all together for fifteen minutes or until the vegetables are tender, stirring often to prevent scorching. Put into jars and seal while hot.

Happy Farm Life.

We live on a farm four miles south of Ada. We have eighty acres in cultivation, 20 acres in pasture, 10 in woods, and the calves and ten hogs for meat this winter. I have 150 hens.

I have butter and eggs to sell throughout the year.

In the spring I hatch about 1500 baby chicks for sale. I keep about 200 for my own use. This supplies our table with meat and eggs. After I am through setting, I sell all the roosters.

When eggs go below twenty cents per dozen I can them and keep them until prices are higher.

I can them in water glass, and find they are as fresh as any eggs but care must be taken in canning them. They must be fresh and not cracked when canned. The water glass must be kept two inches over the eggs.

I have about 1,000 cans of eatables, consisting of peaches, apples, berries, tomatoes, soup mixtures, kraut, cherries, plums, chow chow, grapes, beans, corn, pears, beets and cucumber pickles and all kinds of preserves and jellies. I have all kinds of meats such as ribs, pork sausage, etc.

You can find almost anything in my cellar that you would want to eat. We don't raise cotton and corn and live out of paper sacks from town. Our chickens, eggs and butter supply our home for the necessary things we need.

"If you live on a farm don't board at town," raise your own living, make your crops come out ahead."

We have a very nice little home, have the city water in our home, also sinks and bath with hot and cold water. This is a lot of convenience to our home.

We have been married 12 years, have only one child, a boy 19 months old. His name is Johnnie James Boring, he is very bright and the light of our home. We hope to make something out of him and give him a chance on life's bright side. We want him to know all kinds of work, how to save and help to develop his talents, whatever they may be.—Mrs. J. L. Boring.

WHY PLANT SHRUBS

IN THE FALL?

The Autumn is generally considered to be the very best planting season for shrubs. If set out then they will have fully two months more of growth than if they are set out in the springtime, which will provide much more strength, to withstand the usual summer drought, which is the greatest enemy of newly set shrubs, even though planting has been done most carefully and properly.

At this season of the year, furthermore, there is far more time to devote to the careful planting of the shrubs, than if one waits until the spring. The rush of summer work is over, most of the important gardening has been accomplished, and we now have time in which to properly plan where the shrubs may be suitably established and just what spot in the garden awaits the special variety that is appropriate for it.

When the impulse is with us to do shrub planting, we had better follow it, as if we wait until next spring's garden work again elicits us, the shrub planting may be postponed indefinitely.

Many shrubs if planted now will bloom early next spring and summer, thus giving the added attraction of their blooming a year sooner than they would if we waited to plant them in the spring.

As the shrub planting is to be permanent, it will be about as important to your future happiness and contentment as is the building of your house, garage, tree planting, or any of the rest of your home improvements. Before actually planting, therefore, carefully map out your grounds, deciding where each shrub is to be placed,—large specimen shrubs, tall shrubs for a background, screens, informal hedges along paths or fences, or grouping massed along fences or drives, or foundation plantings around the house. Your shrub planting will probably take place after the first hard frosts, but do not wait until the "first hard frost" to make all your necessary preparations, and ordering your stock of shrubs. Make all your plans for the planting as long before as is possible and have your shrubs arrive in time.

The "foundation planting", or planting the shrubs around the house, should really be given the very first place in importance when we order our shrubs. No house seems to be properly clothed or complete until it has a few shrubs nestling about its foundations whether they be of stone or wood. There is scarcely a house that would not receive a boost in the real estate market if shrubs were planted artistically about its foundations. In shrubbery plantings around the house, care should be taken to plant the tall growing varieties at the corners, and on either side of the entrances, while the low growing shrubs fill the intervening spaces.

KILL THE SCRUB ROOSTER.

By Zella Wigent.

It will pay us to improve our farm flock of chickens by getting rid of the poor stuff, the old hens and the surplus roosters.

We should be particular about our male birds. There are hundreds of thousands of scrub roosters on the farms that should be served for food this winter.

The male is half the flock. If we can spend a little money in improving our flock, it will pay us to buy a well-bred male. The quickest way to improve our dairy herd is to put a good male at the head. The same is true of chickens—only we get results quicker. If we mate a male to our best hens we will have a ad from these eggs and mate them with a well-bred male.

It will be better, after getting a well-bred male, to buy two or three good hens. These hens will produce enough eggs in one season to give us quite a flock of pullets. We should save the best of these for breeding purposes and in two years we will have a good sized pure-bred flock.

Stick To One Breed.

We should select the breed we want and stick to it. The practice of exchanging eggs with neighbors and thus changing the breed or type each year is wrong.

We should breed for egg-production. This means that the male should come from an egg-laying strain.

The trap nest is to the poultry keeper what the Babcock test is to the dairy-man. It enables him to pedigree his stock from the standpoint of production. The farmer cannot afford to trapnest, but he can afford to pay well to get a male that comes from a reliable breeder, who trapnests his flock.

We should choose our rooster for vitality. He should be well jointed, well-built and sturdy. The comb and wattles should be well developed and fiery red in color. He should be a good feeder and a good fighter.

Get rid of the scrubs. It means more eggs, better and healthier chicks, more money.

MISSOURI'S EGGS AND ITS REPUTATION

By Carl Williams

Not long since two carloads of eggs, one from Oklahoma and the other from Missouri, appeared on the produce market in Chicago. The Missouri carload was sold for 29 1-2 cents a dozen and the Oklahoma carload for 26 1-2 cents a dozen.

Both of these shipments of eggs were then graded by a United States government inspector and the Oklahoma shipment was found to be a trifle better in quality than that from Missouri. As a result of this inspection, when the eggs were resold, the Oklahoma carload brought a half-cent per dozen more than the eggs from Missouri.

Why this 3-cent difference in the price of eggs, when the Oklahoma brand was proved to be better than the Missouri brand? Both shipments had been carefully graded, packed in even colors and sizes. All of the eggs were clean and fresh and every egg was edible. Yet, men were willing to pay more for one carload than the other.

The answer lies in the fact that Missouri egg shippers have been sending good eggs to market for many years, and that a reputation has been established for quality which has made the Missouri hen famous. Oklahoma shippers of eggs haven't been so careful.

The price of an egg depends on the condition of the egg when it reaches the market where somebody is going to eat it, and not on its condition when it leaves the hen. Oklahoma hens lay eggs that are quite as sweet and fresh as any Missour hen has ever been known to do, but you wouldn't necessarily believe it if you had to eat most Oklahoma eggs after they have been peddled through the Chicago market.

Oklahoma egg dealers and shippers have apparently been going on the basis that an egg is an egg, regardless of size, color, cleanliness, freshness or anything else. At least the country buyers have taken that attitude in their dealings with the farmer, for they have consistently paid the same price for all classes and grades of eggs when they have bought them.

Why should a farmer take the trouble to gather eggs twice a day or market them every day rather than once a week, or cull out the dirty eggs, or sort the brown eggs from the white ones, or do any other of those things which are necessary in the production of good eggs, when he can haul poor eggs to town and get the same price for them as for good eggs?

Now and then a whole carload of good Oklahoma eggs reaches the city market and finally commands a good price, but it is neither the farmer, the country shipper nor the Oklahoma carlot hipper who profit thereby. Nor will the situation be changed until the dealers who buy eggs from the farm folks begin to pay for them on a basis of quality. For the lack of this reform Oklahoma farmers lose at least $1,000,000 a year on the eggs they sell.

Granger Rough Cut

A Pointer on Tobacco—

The slower a tobacco burns, the cooler it smokes. Also the longer it lasts. This slow burning is due to the "cut". Granger is "rough cut" to smoke slow and cool—cut for pipes, not cigarettes. And Wellman's famous old secret method produces richer fragrance and taste.
